

EARTH SCIENCE AND GEOLOGY FIELD TRIP PERMISSION SLIP

Background and Purpose: Earth Science and Geology are difficult to study in the classroom and is something that I feel needs to be experienced. On this field trip we will be hiking up to a small reservoir and talk about many topics we've learned about this year in class. The hike is located at the mouth of Little Cottonwood Canyon just East of Sandy, UT (as seen in the map below). Friday is forecasted to be one of the hottest days of this year so far, so water and sunscreen is highly recommended. The hike itself is roughly a mile up to the reservoir. The trail up isn't too strenuous, there are switch backs and small to large boulders along the trail. We'll just be spending time around the reservoir to talk about and do plenty of science-y things! Students will go to first period and then be called down to the busses. We will leave promptly at 8 AM if you miss the bus you will not be going. Only 100 spots.
